Summer Coon.

Lick Skillet, Ky.

To the Advocate:—

Ser, after studing over all my misfortunes and tribules which I have undergoen as a politishun in the last few years has caused mee to think it would be advisable for me to pull up stakes and leave this neck of the woods. I finde I hav about exsauled all my usfullness as a wining leader of any kind of a little old political party. I usto make plenty of stuff making stump speeches up here for the ginerat party, but I am causid now of not being a true blue democrit. Becaus I holted the regular nomine of the so-called democrat party. weil I am convinced now that I did make a mistake, tho I wer a red hot Brown democrat. I now see there is no differanc worth speaking of between a Brown gineat and a Republican, notwithstanding I think there is good clean men in all. I now realize that if a man is a democrat he must stick to the nomances of the party and if he is a true blue Republican he will stick to the nomances of his party. I am sadsid that I dun my slate a grate political injure in the way I shot my wads in the last campane. I cant see anything in sight for mee now from ether party. now I hav the brains and qualificaions to fil any little summer office kentucky might require. I would not make a slow congress man if I had a shoo, but I am all mud now. I wer at one time one of the most promising lawyers at the lick skillet Bar but it seems now I can get ethything to do at my profeshun. I havent had any thing like a case at the bar but one this year and it hardly payed any thing. Olde Tobias Walkers and Jake Rinershe's dogs got into a fight and Jake's wife went out to the finest end prystest dress in lick skillet. it must of cost six or eight cents a yard and Jake's wife is a large woman. he said it took between six and a half and seven yards to make her a fashanable dress. she mesure forty four inches around the waist and is six feet ten inches high and is as squar as a pistol. So Jake sued Tobias for the cost of the dress which wer apprased at one dollar and thirty-five cents. in cort Jake wife impleyed me as her lawyer in the case. I won the case all rite. I charged her eighty cents for my fee and when I presented my claim Jake brought in an account of ninety cents which he claimed I owed him, so I am losser all around. I hav made a big blunder in the last few years as a lawyer and politition, it begins to look to me like I wer cut out for a mud man. It seems like I stand no sho with no party now, is there any room for one more rusty coat lawyer in your town, if so pleas let mee no. I want to try and get on my Rins all rite once more with sum little Summer party, and I think I will stick to my punching good or bad. I dont intend to have the wool pulled over my eyes any more if I ever get back with my party all rite again. I am opposed to corruption and proud and that is why I am always in a hard place. the longer a fellow nose the more he lives, go slo and say nothing, there is a good time cutting yet boys, whose picture that you are using for mine. I will send you a picture of mine before long, that one you are using looks sum ole time weathering heating dude.

SUMMER COON.

BOURBON COUNTY ITEMS.

Mrs. Jennie Cohen Brooks has accepted the position of matron of the North Middletown Female Seminary.

WHO IS HE?—A North Middletown man chewed a two dollar bill until it was almost past redemption, having taken it into his mouth with a chew of tobacco.

Joseph A. Grimes, aged about 40 years, a prominent farmer, died of cancer. He leaves four grown sons and two grown daughters.

Mrs. Norman, wife of J. Norman who lives on the Millar Ward farm on the Jacktown pike, was recently bitten on the neck by a spider. The wound was not considered dangerous but blood poisoning ensued and death resulted in five days. Her remains were buried at the Canie Ridge burying ground.

She had just put on her domanican poker dot calicoe dress to go up coon creek to visit Jim Gofer and folkes and one of the dogs tore the bottom flounce clean off of the dress. The flounce was of a difrent kind of goods, it was yellow calicoe with red tape bordering around the bottom edg. it had ten red rose jets above the main flounce. it was

Kennedy Got the Office.

Representative Boreing has a case of the removal of a "widow Postmaster" which promised for while to be as embarrassing to him as that of Mrs. Saunders, Postmaster at Newcastle, Ky., was to Senator Deboe. In Mr. Boreing's district is an office named Monticello, Wayne County, Kentucky. Here Mrs. Mary Triggle was the Postmaster, a widow and an efficient worker. As in the Saunders case Mrs. Triggle had a rival, a man named J. L. Kennedy, an aspirant for the Postmastership. Mr. Kennedy was a faithful party worker, a staunch Republican and a man of unimpeachable record.

Mr. Boreing was anxious to oblige Mr. Kennedy, but he was mindful of the trouble Mr. Deboe was having over the Saunders case, and he pointed out to Mr. Kennedy that he did not wish to get tangled up in a similar dispute, so he regretted he could do nothing for him. The matter drifited for a time until Mr. Boreing was surprised to receive a letter from Mr. Kennedy stating that the widow had changed her mind and would be pleased to relinquish the office, and in view of the fact he would like to be appointed her successor. Although he did not doubt Mr. Kennedy, Mr. Boreing thought it was well to hear from the widow and wrote her what Mr. Kennedy had said regarding her willingness to leave the service. Somewhat to his surprise the answer came back that she wished to surrender the office and had no objections to Mr. Kennedy's appointment. But the letter was signed Mrs. Kennedy.

The enterprise candidate for the office had married the Postmaster. It is pleasing to note that his enterprise was rewarded and he has been appointed Postmaster at Monticello, vice Mrs. Mary Triggle, resigned.—Ex.

Meagher is Out on Bail.

John Meagher, Jr., of Frankfort, who shot and killed W. J. McNamara, a well-known local politician, at Lexington was arraigned but waived examination. He was held to await the September term of Court and allowed bail at $500, which he gave and returned home. After the hearing the brothers of McNamara and Meagher had a talk and it is said the case will end with the grand jury.

Stele Statue.

Col. John Taylor, of Lexington, has discovered that the statue erected to the memory of William J. Barry—who was Col. Taylor's grandfather—which formerly stood in the courthouse yard at Lexington, Ky., has been stolen by vandals. He will lodge complaint with the Legislature at its next session, and ask that body to investigate. Major Barry was the first Postmaster General of the United States, and was a national character. He died in Liverpool shortly after having been appointed Minister and Envoy to Spain.

Stoned Him.

The appointment of a Democratic negro teacher of the Cadetown, a Fayette county school, caused the negro citizens of that place to rebel against his teaching. His horse was stopped Monday and Prof. Nelson, the teacher, taken off and stoned. The schoolhouse was nailed up. A score of negroes charged with confederating to break up the school were arrested and taken to Lexington.

"King" McNamara, who killed Jacob Keller in Lexington some months ago and fled, is said to have been shot to death in Denver.

Arrested.

A gentleman from Johnson county who was in town Tuesday told us that five men had been arrested for robbing Mr. Dan Davis, the merchant near Paintsville. Two of them, Hall and Sloan were from Knott county and two, Adams and Centers from Johnson county, and another Centers. The first four had confessed. They secured about $440, of which about $90 was recovered.

They secured entrance to his residence by false representation, covered him with their pistols and led him to the room occupied by his sons. Two robbers guarded them while others forced Mr. Davis to open the door of safe at the store. They also threatened him with death if he revealed the matter. Mr. Davis was slow to proceed in detecting them, in fact others took the lead in arresting the robbers.

Will Have a School.

Despite the fact that Richmond, Ky., will lose its most noted school Central University, by a consolidation, the people of that city and county will again have a college.

There has been a conference between representatives of the colleges which were consolidated resulting in a signal victory for the Richmond people who opposed the consolidation.

Madison county retains the University buildings and $60,000 will be raised to start a new college. It is hoped to open the new college in September. No suits will be filed.

Better Look a Leetle Out.

The following ultimatum has been made by attorney General Taylor, of Indiana, regarding the Jeffersonville marriage traffic, and will be of interest to many of our readers:

"The unlawful granting of marriage licenses in Jeffersonville must stop, or the officials implicated therein will be prosecuted against under a law passed by the Indiana Legislature of 1899, providing for the impeachment of county officers and the method by which it may be accomplished. Attorney General Taylor, when he heard that Circuit Clerk Carr intended to fight the case and defend his interpretation of the law making it necessary for the woman to be a resident of the county thirty days before a license can be issued, wrote a letter to Mr. Carr demanding to know if it was true that he was pursuing this course and by what authority he is now proceeding and notifying him that the law plainly prohibits the granting of licenses in cases where the female is not a bona fide resident of the county."

Big Drop.

The Courier Journal says: "A vegetable and fruit famine which had prevailed in Louisville several weeks was broken Wednesday by a startling drop in prices, due to heavy receipts. The recent rains helped gardens and orchards and the growers have been shipping in great quantities, with the result that instead of being short or entirely lacking the markets are if anything overstocked. Tomatoes, which sold at $2.50 and $3 a bushel are now 25c and 35c. Peaches are plentiful. From the highest prices since the war vegetables have dropped to normal figures."

A Faithful Officer.

A mob which attempted to lynch a negro prisoner confined in the Tuscaloosa, Ala., jail on the charge of assaulting a white girl was dispersed by the Sheriff of the county, who refused to surrender the man, and threatened to shoot any member of the mob who tried to enter the cell.

COMMENDABLE.

Republicans are making an effort to raise sufficient money to provide Howard and Powers, who are charged with the murder of ex-Gov. Goebel, with a talented lawyer, one who can present their defense with all the effect possible. If these men are innocent they should be cleared, if they are guilty they should be disposed of, for if the charges are true, having once manifested how dangerous they are, it becomes the duty of the powers to see that they do not have an opportunity to again commit murder. The court should appoint a competent lawyer, one who can cope with any the prosecution may have, who would give to the case his best efforts, and he, aided by an attorney or attorneys employed by the charities of the people, would satisfy the Commonwealth that their case did not suffer for want of legal talent.

A fair, impartial trial is desired by all just people.

In this issue appears an article, "Arrested." The crime committed by those men deserves the severest penalty prescribed for the offense. They threatened murder. They are public enemies. We trust that as speedily as possible they will have a fair trial, receive the full measure of punishment, and that the Governor of the State will let them serve their full sentence. Too often the guilty are turned loose to further prey upon the public and do their deeds of violence. The gospel is the power that, if accepted, will save men from this and all crimes and sins, but if men will not heed it, but continue their deeds of violence trespassing upon the rights of their fellow men, then the civil authorities must see that the innocent and weak are protected, and the wrong inflicted avenged.

SCHOOLS.

We are interested in our boys and girls and for this reason we would ask the people to consider the best within their reach and then go after it for the boys and girls sake.

Young men of pluck can make their own way to an education these days and it is our business to direct them how to do it. Any information we may have will be cheerfully furnished.

The young men who would delve deep for knowledge will not allow the lack of money to get between them and an education. Some of the men who have electrified the world have attained to greatness by their own resources.

REFRESHING.

It is a pleasure to note that only two arrests were made during the week past. The city had an increased police force and the entire body were vigilant. How whisky, beer and the like were dispensed without intoxicating the imbibers, the editor is at a loss to know. It may be the drinkers got good last week and the money that they generally use in making them selves drunk was given to their wives and children so that they could see the street fair sights, the midway, etc.

Really refreshing it is for so large a gathering to be free of intoxicants. House-breaking, thieving, fighting, drunkenness and the like skipped our city last week.

STREET FAIR.

The Mt. Sterling Street Fair and Carnival was a success here. The people were delighted. It demonstrated that a stock, agricultural and mechanical association with such men in charge as had the Street Fair would make a great success.

It may be the Republicans in convention September 21st will offer a full ticket. Such an action would be manly, and the voters would have an opportunity to measure party strength. It matters not, however, how the ticket may be made up, a united Democratic party will be victorious.

The man who exhibits at a fair should remember he is not a judge and that it is his business to accept decision, though it might appear to him unjust.

Give Her a Clear Field.

The people of Rowan county, we are informed, are considering the claims of Miss Cora Wilson not from any political standpoint, but purely upon her worth. She is one of them; they know her attainments, her industry, her real fitness and because they know her, because she is one of them they propose to give her the position of County Superintendent, believing she will make Rowan county as good a Superintendent as any county in Kentucky has. Miss Wilson continues her studies, is up on all the new methods and knowledge the wants of her people and their ability to learn, and bring the schools up to a higher standard.

Kentuckians deserve the best and no one knows this better than Kentuckians. We have heard much of Miss Wilson, of her capacity, aspirations and determination and think it would be well to give her a clear field. It is a fact that our women are making the best County Superintendents.

Mt. Sterling

and Carnival.

Some weeks ago it was announced that Mt. Sterling would undertake an entertainment of the Street Fair order, and the announcement failed to receive a favorable response.

Young and determined men of pluck, backed by their Orders, the A. O. U. W. and Red Men, forced themselves up against obstacles, meeting every argument with a winning one. Thus fortified by these lodges, they assumed the responsibility of bills, getting out all the needed advertising and using it to the very best advantage. Soon the people one by one became interested, and finally at the proper time the citizens of Mt. Sterling did the handsomely thing by subscribing liberally to the enterprise.

The privileges were sold for a handsome price, a Midway Pavilion was provided, the Bostock-Ferari Co. furnishing the amusements. The fair program was announced and success was assured.

Notwithstanding clouds were lowering all the while and rain fell often in torrents, the crowds were here, and where they came from was past finding out. It appeared that the busines had been shaken and the folks dropped in by the thousands. The first day, Wednesday, the order was a brass band followed by the A. O. U. W. and Red Men, this by floats representing many of the business interests of the city. The fire department presented two engines, two hose carts and a hook and ladder wagon each beautifully decorated, reflecting credit and taste to the persons who gave the final touch. Pat Shannon was a leading feature and was the happiest living man.

James L. Conroy was next with a fine display representing the up-to-dateness of his business. The handsome and elaborate decorations representing each man at his specialty and also showing the manner of putting on rubber tires by machinery.

Barnes & Sons with a beautiful new delivery wagon neatly decorated.

Shroud, Robinson & Co.'s, display carriage was artistic and beautiful, an apt representation of a fancy and staple grocery business so tastefully and fancifully decorated was it that it had no trouble in winning the reward for the most interesting in the parade.

The farm was represented by a float with the colored population as laborers in a farm wagon, carrying the light implements common to farm use. This was W. P. Oldham & Co.'s float. Shovels, picks, axes, forks, spades, hammers, etc. A fine display of the aggregate farm business and the laborers as well. In connection with this were little Indians with the old time dint-lock and bayonet, bow and arrow, tomahawk, in defense of America, their own native land. It fitly represented the Red Men's Order and hardware business as well.

The Bluegrass Poultry House had a float true to its business, a real poultry house on wheels, containing departments with yellow leg chickens, fine Barred Plymouth Rocks, Bronze Turkeys, Pekin Ducks, Chanticleers, etc. It was a hand-somely decorated float.

I. F. Tabb, the man who buys more from the farmers and pays more for it than any other firm in Mt. Sterling, had a float representing farm products and this representation is really Tabb's business.

The decorations accorded in taste with the business. Though in a procession it was interesting to calculate the worth in dollars this firm has been to the farmers of this section.

The great oil trust was in with a fancy dressed wagon drawn by a bluegrass thorough goer carrying six lovely Kentucky girls representing the Standard Oil Company.

Mr. George E. Chick had his coal cart in the procession with a sample of Kentucky coal, the finest in the world; a true specimen of what Mr. Chick handles.

Ed Mitchell, the Hardware Man, said, I'll make the prettiest show of them all. I don't need any flowers or tinted silks, fine horses or glittering carriages. I'll just show the Mitchell, the best wagon on earth, and a half dozen Kentucky beauties, drawn by the draft horse, whose muscle is to the farm work what the fertile earth is to the abundant crop. The horse, the wagon, the beautiful Blue Grass belles represented Ed Mitchell, the Hardware Man.

Punch & Gatewood, dealers in footwear and furnishings were out in the most gorgeous float. An immense shoe represented their leading line. It was protected by a canopy of tins artistically designed and supported by four columns decorated in National colors. The float was drawn by four Kentucky horses, each one of which was led by a colored laborer. The Red Man and Laborer were seen in two men dressed as the Indian and Laborer. This, the judges chosen to pass on the best advertising float, gave the premium to Punch & Gatewood.

Thos. Wilson and Mrs. Hughart were in a neatly ornamented buggy drawn by a high-headed, spirited steed.

Bela Peters and Miss Anna Laura Young were drawn by a spirited Kentucky Blue Grass horse hooked to a fancy buggy.

The Star Grocery Co. represented its business with the Blue Grass Brewing Co.'s production.

Jesse Hainline managed a float representing his business. It was a true likeness.

J. H. Brunner, the shoe man, had an artistic float, which vied for the first prize. This in decoration, taste and business representation was really good. Mr. Brunner with the shoe represented his business purely. He is a dealer exclusively in electric shoes and shoe findings and is also a manufacturer of fine foot wear.

The Sterling Grocery Co. was very modest, but represented its business by the managers of the two departments, one the grocery department and the other the fresh meat department. The float was the every day delivery wagon drawn by the quick delivery horses. Decorations, national colors.

Superior Drills and Avery plows were represented—something of the enormous implement business of Chenault & Oscar. As were floats so were these implements ornamented with the national colors.

Walsh Bros' float was a ship representing both imports and exports as laborers in a farm wagon, carrying the light implements common to farm use. This was W. P. Oldham & Co.'s float. Shovels, picks, axes, forks, spades, hammers, etc. A fine display of the aggregate farm business and the laborers as well. In connection with this were little Indians with the old time dint-lock and bayonet, bow and arrow, tomahawk, in defense of America, their own native land. It fitly represented the Red Men's Order and hardware business as well.

Saturday was Red Men's day, representing the wild Indian in a chase after the pale face. The town was made hideous for an hour with the war whoop, the crack of the unerring rifle and the occasional neigh of the wild horse. The men went back to frontier life when the pale faced lived in dread.

The exhibitions were good at the Street Fair and competition often sharp. Only in the fancy turnout was any feeling manifested, but the judges gave the premium to Chrystal & Oscar and we are sure it was just, because the judges said it should go to this turnout.

CAMPING IN COLORADO.

Directions of a Summer Outing in the Mountains.
The mountains of Colorado offer innumerable camping grounds to delight the man who, leaving behind the din of the cities, seeks repose, says the Denver Post.

"There are so many places in this great state where one may spend weeks in the open air, with an abundance of game on all sides, that a selection of camping sites is difficult.

Mr. Blanco, Routh, Garfield, Gun-
Grand, Larimer and Eagle counties are perhaps most highly regarded by those who annually seek wilderness in summertime.

One, large and small, is to be found in each of them, and through the wild, picturesque territory streamlets teem with trout for their way, foaming and roaring. Each of them also has lakes—cool, low and deep, mirroring the snowy peaks and green slopes on the surrounding mountains.

"Elk, bear, deer, antelope, wolves, mountain lions, wildcats, grouse, sage hens, small animals of various kinds, and trout inhabit these counties.

The shooting and fishing are superb and the summer climate in the cool green natural parks is delightful.

North park, in Latimer county, between the pretty Medicine Bow and beyond Park ranges of mountains, just south of the great snow-capped Continental divide. The North Platte rises there, and rainbow trout abound near its headwaters.

Starker's smaller streams flow through the valley green park and empty into the Platte, and speckled brook trout disport themselves in these tiny rivers.

Middle park, in Grand county, has a number of beauty fine camping sites. The "lafayette?" Henry?—Oh, I think lots of her, but I don't seem to suit?"—Harlem Life.

A newspaper editor once on receiving his tailor's bill recurred it with this indorsement:—"Decidedly hand-writing illegible."—London Tit-Bits.

"So you really think Jules has a swelled head, do you?"—"Swelled head?" Why, he's got such a big head that he imagines he has taken a bath every time he washes his face."—Indianapolis News.

A Reasonable Conductor.—Pikeley?—"And just because you lost your ticket the conductor made you get off the car and walk all the way home?"—Bilkey?—"Oh, no. He only put me off. I could have sat by the roadside all night if I had wanted to."—Baltimore World.

"You see, I'm familiar with your music," remarked the amateur pianist, after his performance at the musical. "It seems so," replied the popular composer; "at any rate, you took a great many liberties with it."—Philadelphia Record.

How Are Earthquakes Caused? Australia Had War Scars.

In Australia there are two earthquake observatories, one at Sydney and another at Melbourne. It would have been a great deal of money saved to the colony if she had had a few of Prof. Milne's instruments several years ago, when her three cables suddenly ceased to work and left her completely shut off from the world. There had been rumors of war, and when the break occurred the Australians thought some hostile power had cut the cables and would soon swoop down upon the colonies. The governors called out the militia and the naval reserves to patrol the coast, and there was great excitement for nearly three weeks. Business was at a standstill until news came that it was only an earthquake, which had lowered the ocean's bottom, making the sea between Java and Australia deeper by many fathoms. The floor of the sea had taken down the cables along with it.—Everybody's Magazine.

THE END SEAT QUESTION.

Cuts us Fortune Takers on Point in Street Etiquette.

"There is one point in the discussion of the end seat question which should not be overlooked, and that is the mathematical side of it," said the treasurer of a local theater to a Washington Star man, as he slipped two tickets in a little envelope, and handed them to the man at the box office window with the remark: "Yes, sir, aisle seats, third row, center, for tonight, thank you."

"In the orchestra of the average theater there are about 22 rows of seats, running back usually to V. There are, therefore, but 44 center orchestra seats in the house, with twice that number of end seats, making only 88 of these desirable places on the lower floor, exclusive of the orchestra circle. In the latter, the number are on an average of about 20 center aisle seats.

"In a closed street car there are but four corner seats and an open car with ten rows of seats but twice that number of end seats. In a railroad car there are 24 window seats. All of these desirable seats added together make a total of only 156, and as the average theater will seat about 700 persons downstairs, and the remaining seats in the cars I have named amount to 124, it is 156 against 834. Naturally, people want the best they can get.

"I consider it perfectly natural that a man buying a seat in a theater should ask for an aisle or an end seat, and I do not consider that it indicates any selfishness on the part of those whose money is shovved in the box office window accompanied by the remark: 'Aisle seats, as far down as you have them, please.'

"It is the same with the end seats on the cars. The persons who occupy these seats are in them before those who come after, and by right of occupation and first presence, they are entitled to them. These particular places belong to these persons by right of purchase. They paid for them when they gave the conductor his fare. They own them temporarily.

"No one expects a man in a theater occupying an end seat to move along to the inside seats and surrender his place to those who come after him, and I fail to observe any distinction in point of principle between a theater seat and an end seat in a car, except the difference in price."

A Unique Industry.

"Speaking of the babies in the parks," said a man to a reporter, "brings to my mind a unique industry which is followed at Atlantic City. I was passing along the board walk there not long ago and I saw a sign which read as follows: 'Children carefully carded; five cents per hour.' The man who managed the enterprise had several assistants and was doing a thriving business. Many tired mothers left their children with him while they took a bath, and I suspect that nurses sometimes shifted their responsibility at the rate of five cents an hour."—Washington Star.

The Main Thing.—Miss Summergal?—"What have you been buying?" Miss Ditto?—"A lot of nice novels for seashore reading." Miss Summergal?—"What are they?" Miss Ditto?—"I didn't notice their names; but they're all bound in green and will go well with any gown."—Philadelphia Record.

THE BALUCH.

People of West India Are Descended from the Arabs.

According to the Geographical Journal, there were Arabs in the west of India before Alexander's time, and they have left the mark of their colonies in southern Baluchistan as imperishably as any that may be found in Rhodesia. But the modern Baluch usually traces back his pedigree with great confidence to the tribe of the prophet, and care to go no further. It appears, in manners and in disposition, many of the fine traits of the Arab race.

As a people, however, they are almost typical Arabs of the town-bred class, such as one may meet in any of the coast towns of Arabia, and always be glad to meet again. As a professional robber and raider the Baluch is in no way inferior to the Pathan, but his methods differ from his standard of ethics is undoubtedly higher.

The quality of chivalry is not forgotten by these descendants of a people who claimed affinity with the Saracens, and loyalty to the chief of their clan is traditionally loyalty to his child with the Baluch takes the place of the Pathan's blind confidence in his master. It is sometimes asserted that the Baluch tribesman is a much easier man to deal with politically than the Pathan. This is certainly true to some extent, for he is far more faithful to his engagements when made, and far more open-minded in the making of them. But it is due to the lack of the quality of courage or independence.

The success of the Baluchistan administration, which for so many years has differed in many important respects from that of the Pathan, must be attributed largely to the wisdom of its conception in the first instance. Baluchistan, indeed, of late years has been in the position of that happy land which has no history. Not a single important tribal rising has occurred since the first occupation of Quetta.

American Locomotives Best.

Another heavy test of the respective merits of English and American locomotives on the railroad at Kingston, Jamaica, has resulted in a great victory for the latter, which drew 128 tons over the heaviest part of the line in seven minutes under the schedule time. The English locomotive completely failed to pull the load.

Too Late.

At Rome, the Pope when informed of the death of Signor Crispini exclaimed:

"Providence has evidently really decreed that I shall be the last of my generation to go. Well, Crispini was a good fighter."

A few minutes later the Pope was on his knees at his prie dieu praying for the soul of his ancient enemy.

For Kentucky Schools.

State Treasurer Hager received from the Auditor of the Interior Department, at Washington, a letter advising him that the annual appropriation for Kentucky's colleges of agriculture and fine arts had been credited to the State.

The output will be an average yield if good weather continues till cutting time.

Kentucky Tobacco.

A dispatch from Ripley, O., says:

A. R. Richardson came in from Maysville, Ky., Monday morning, at which point he has finished a tour of the Blue Grass Tobacco District, made in company with C. Dunker, son, of Louisville. They passed through the farms about Sadieville, Cynthia, Paris, Millersburg, Winchester and Lexington, and, except at the first named place, found the growing crop in excellent condition, although the setting is not large. The output will be an average yield if good weather continues till cutting time.

Cyclone Did Considerable Damage.

A heavy storm near Mayfield, Ky., Tuesday night destroyed growing crops and did much damage.

At Farmington a small cyclone razed houses and laid waste to orchards.

Damage Overestimated.

The Gulf coast from Pensacola to New Orleans is at last under review, telegraphic communication being re-established. The general report is that aside from damage to wharves and bathhouses, sailboats, trees, houses and fences, the instances of serious loss are few. There has been no loss of life.

Killed By Train.

A car repayer by name of John McSherry, employed by the Louisville & Nashville railroad was run over by a train at Paris Tuesday evening and badly mangled. He lived only a few hours.

The Navy Department has selected Rear Admiral Mortimer L. Johnson, now in command at the Port Royal naval station, to succeed Rear Admiral Sampson in command of the Naval navy yard when the latter officer shall retire.

What is Love?

A dispatch from Frankfurt says: Attorney James A. Scott would neither affirm nor deny that he was to assist in the defense of Jim Howard when the latter's trial comes up next month. Scott, it will be remembered, was the first man to whom Youtsey made a statement of his connection with the Goebel murder, and Scott was expected to make an important witness against Youtsey, but was allowed to remain silent on the ground that Youtsey had talked to him as an attorney.

Scott and Banister N. H. Witherspoon, of Winchester, a brother-law of Youtsey, had a controversy over the matter, the banker charging that Scott had acted in bad faith with him and Youtsey. Republican newspapers abused Scott roundly at the time, charging him with all sorts of double dealing and with a desire to hang Taylor and d-n the Republican party.

What is Love?

God requires my love? "Oh, that is such an impractical thing," one says. "We want something more tangible! Ah! my friend, love is never that. It isn't a mere sentiment. It is a life. It is a sacrifice. It is a service. No wonder Jesus said that love to God was the first and greatest commandment. First, not merely merely, but first in importance. The heart given over to the world, or divided, can not render any service acceptably. Give God the measure of love he asks, and you will withhold nothing."

Will Reduce Police Force.

Civil Governor Taft will reduce the police force of Manila by one-half. At present there are 1,300 policemen for the city, whose population numbers only 25,000 souls. The Governor considers it unnecessary to have over 600 policemen, as they are not required for military purposes.

Powers of Drink.

To banish intemperance would mean to sap the greatest fountain of impurity. There are many of the sins into which men are led that could not allure them had not moral sense first been dulled by strong drink. The associations of the saloon are such that no one ever remained pure-minded and frequented the saloon. The gardens and ball-rooms where young people part company with their purity of character could not exist without the aid of strong drink. A woman who had spent many years in a struggle with intemperance, with little trouble," writes Mrs. Milton Grimes, of Adair, Ind., "was brought on her own heels, suffering from womanly weakness, by keeping up trouble against the strong drink.

"Weak women are made strong and sick women are made well by the use of Dr. Pierce's Patent Medicine. It is a reliable restorative. It drives away feelings of drains, inflammation and disease and cures female weakness, restoring the nervous system to the entire womanly organism. It makes the body's natural processes painless and gives strength to nursing mothers.

"Dr. Pierce's Patent Medicine with gentle trouble," writes Mrs. Milton Grimes, of Adair, Ind., "when brought on the heels of a woman, brings her back to health, but before I would tire all the time and have an aching so I could not sleep. Now I can sleep during the day when I used to have trouble at night before I had the medicine. Address Dr. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y."

"Dear me!" You must find that very irksome," said one of her friends.

"Oh, but I don't," was the reply. "It shows me how much my mother cares for me."

It is with our Father's requirements. When he asks for our best love and invites us to communicate often with him, he shows something of how much he cares for us."

Lasting Hymns

Is the title of a charming little song book for the use of churches just issued by Rev. J. W. Porter, author of "A Sinner" and Rev. J. A. Lee of Covington. It is a splendid collection of old hymns, songs made with care and discrimination. It is suitable for all the services of the churches. The book retails at 35 cents per copy and may be had by ordering from either of the authors, as above. From a careful examination of this new book we can heartily commend it from a doctrinal and evangelical standpoint.

ORIENTAL COMPLIMENTS.
How Eastern People Regard Those of Other Nations.

An amusing trait in human nature is the mutual contempt with which nations regard each other. It is a trait which can be traced back as far as history extends. The Greeks called the outlandish world barbarians; the Romans scoffed at the Greeks, and the Egyptians regarded other people as no better than slaves.

In our days, the contempt we exhibit for oriental nations is mild compared with their contempt for us, says Golden Days. The Turks are little behind the Chinese in this respect, their ordinary designation of a Christian being a "dog."

When the first Dutch ambassador was sent to the sultan, he was asked the sultan,

"What does the dog want?" asked the sultan.

This was translated in a speech full of oriental compliment, and the ambassador replied in the same strain.

"Let the dog feed," answered the sultan, "and when the dog is fed, kick the dog out."

The ambassador was delighted with the sultan's compliments. The sultan felt that he had held his own, and the treaty was signed next day.

MONUMENTS IN GERMANY.
Many of Them in Honor of Foreign Celebrities.

It appears that Weimar—the classic home of Goethe and Schiller, the Castor and Pollux of German literature—is about to be embellished with a Shakespeare monument, but that will not be the first compliment of its kind, says the London Chronicle, which the Germans have paid to men of British birth. The Wilhelmplatz in Berlin itself is adorned by the statue of no fewer than three distinguished Scotsmen—one a life-size monument of Field Marshal Keith, included among the heroes of the seven years' war who stoned the square, and the other two large busts of James Watt and George Stephenson, which adorn the facade of the fine mansion of Borsig, the great engineer, which overlooks the Platz. Then, again, is not Canne's embellished with a statue of its creator, Lord Brougham? While visitors to Boulogne must surely have noticed the fine statue of our Jenner, with its faltering inscription, which stands on the quay near the fish market.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
